

A Call for Gender Equity in the Museum Workplace

The Gender Equity in Museums Movement (GEMM) is a coalition of individuals and organizations committed to raising awareness about gender inequity in the museum workplace and offering resources for change.

- Learn about Women, Art, and Wikipedia Edit-a-thons. The gender gap on Wikipedia is no secret. In 2011, The Wikimedia Foundation found that less than 10% of editors on the platform were women. This year marked Art + Feminism's fifth annual Wikipedia Edit-a-thon campaign, which aims to improve coverage of cis and transgender women, feminism, and the arts on Wikipedia. This year more than 500 events took place around the world, with over 11,000 Wikipedia articles edited.
- Acquire new skills. Visit GEMM's website to read "5 Things You Need To Know About Burnout."
- Read a summary on GEMM participation at the American Alliance of Museums Annual Conference.
- Save-the-Date. From November 7–9, the New England Museum Association will be hosting its 100th annual conference around the theme of "Museums on the Move." GEMM-driven presentations include "Low Pay, No Pay and Poor Pay: Say No Way!" and "Where does Power Belong? A Think Tank on Power Dynamics & Workplace Culture."
- Join the conversation. Discuss issues and post articles related to gender equity in museums on GEMM's Facebook or Twitter pages.
- Tell colleagues and friends about GEMM. Please feel free to share this newsletter!
- Why does GEMM appeal to you? Tell us more about yourself and what you are interested in by filling out a 3-minute GEMM Google Survey.

You are receiving this information because you have expressed interest in GEMM. If you no longer want to receive these emails, please reply with the word unsubscribe in the subject headline.